WEDNESDAY.....JUNE 25

WHERE THE MONEY COMES FROM.

The new San Francisco Chronicle building just finished cost about one million dollars. This money came from the country towns all over the coast which patronize the Chronicle.

It is true that the Chronicle occasionally reciprocates the patronage of the country towns by writing them up, alluding to their resources and complimenting the enterprise of the leading citizens. But it is the home paper that is hammering away all the year round that helps the town the most.

Now, if the money spent by the country towns in patronizing the Chronicle were given to the home paper instead, the home paper would grace the country towns with fine buildings, instead of the Chronicle putting it up in San Francisco.

There has been enough money go out of Carson in the last fifteen years to the Chronicle, to enable the local papers to put up buildings costing $25,000 each.

If the amount of patronage which goes monthly from this town were turned into the local papers they could take full telegraph dispatches and furnish the news 24 hours ahead of the Bay papers.

Does this ever occur to the people who take four San Francisco papers and no home paper, and then growl about the sort of a newspaper published in their own town?

Rudyard Kipling is still the rage in London. His "Plain Tales from the Hills," issued by the Lovells, has a good sale, and a new book from his pen has been promised to the same firm. Flat-tery and lionizing does not seem to turn the young man's head. His poetry has a peculiarly vigorous style of its own. His "Ballad of the East and West" and "Last of the Sutties" are good samples of his work and nothing so forcible and dramatic in the shape of poetry has been given the public in many a long year.

A combination of telegraphic experts in San Francisco have been able to tap the wires that go to the pool rooms and won large sums of money off bookmakers on the races. The bookmakers played a sure thing combination until the operators got something surer and of course the authorities step in and protected the bookmakers, just as they do the faro men in the city and three card monte men at the fairs.

In a little while green corn will make its appearance in this city and begin cutting us down like the scythe of the destroyer. Green corn is a terrible thing to fool with. It killed Brigam Young in an afternoon and it may lay any of us out. A ny farmer leaving two dozen ears at this office will be noticed as "one of the model ranchers of the valley."

One of the leaders of the Republican party will contribute to the July number of the North American Review an adverse criticism to the action of Speaker Reed in Congress. The article is a striking one, but every effort is to be made to conceal the identity of its author.

A scheme for electric transmission of power on a large scale is on foot at Rheinfelder, Germany. A canal is to be made to run turbines of 17,000 horse power, and 11,000 horse power will be available to consumers within 15 miles.

Chas. Morris, a cowboy east of Prescott, Arizona, while engaged in a rodeo some six weeks ago was bitten on the nose by a small skunk while lying asleep in camp and died in great agony, with hydrophobia.

THE JINGLERS.

The Jingers' Concert Company of Chicago, Ill., composed of the best talent, formerly with the "Nashville Students," Donovan's Tennesseans, "Slayton's," "Calender," and other companies, will give an entertainment of the choicest and best of native plantation melodies, old time Jubilee songs, solos, duets, quartets and a full chorus at the Carson Opera House Thursday, June 26th.

The Jingers were received with the wildest enthusiasm. —Chicago Tribune

"For genuine vocal music, commend us to the Jingers, who give more melody and fun of a refined order than any three companies on the road." —Albany Democrat.

"The Jingers are immense." —Rev. A. C. Hirst, D. D., Pres. of the University of the Pacific.

The Jingers carry things with the sweep of a cyclone. —Southern California Advocate.

"Each member of the company is an artist in his way, and almost every number on the programme was encored." —San Francisco Call.

"Decidedly the best troupe of the kind that ever performed in this city." —Los Angeles Tribune.

"The concert given by the Jingers was a success in every way. Encores were repeated from the beginning of the entertainment to its close." —Orange Cal. Tribune.

"A large audience greeted the Jingers last night and tonight there will be a larger one. Every song was encored and the house fairly shook with applause." —San Barbara Herald.
